Valuation Joint Board

Customer Complaints Monitoring Report

Annual Report 2014/15

This report covers the twelve month period from 1st April 2014 to 31st March 2015. Appendix 1 contains the Scottish Public Sector Ombudsman's Performance Indicators.

What is a Complaint?

Dunbartonshire and Argyll & Bute Valuation Joint Board's definition of a complaint is:

'An expression of dissatisfaction by one or more members of the public about the Joint Board's action or lack of action, or about the standard of service provided by or on behalf of the Joint Board.'

A complaint may relate to:

- Failure to provide a service
- Failure to achieve standards or quality of service promised by the Joint Board
- Dissatisfaction with Joint Board policies or the way they are being applied or administered
- Disagreement with a decision where the customer cannot use another procedure (for example an appeal) to resolve the matter
- The Joint Board's failure to follow the appropriate administrative process.
- Failure, negligence or delays in responding to customers' inquiries or requests
- Unhelpful or insensitive treatment by, or attitude of, a member of staff
- Malice, bias or unfair discrimination
- Inadequate or incomplete provision of information and/or advice
- Failure to take account of relevant matters in coming to a decision

This list does not cover everything.

A complaint is not:

- A routine first-time request for a service
- A request for compensation only
- An issue that is in court or has already been heard by a court or a tribunal
- A disagreement with a decision where a statutory right of appeal exists, for example in relation to council tax or non-domestic rating appeals or Electoral Registration objections
- An attempt to reopen a previously concluded complaint or to have a complaint reconsidered where we have already given our final decision.

Complaints Received During 2014/15

There were a total of 21 Complaints received during 2014/15 all bar 1 of these related to Electoral Registration. The complaints relating to Electoral Registration fell into five topics. Reviews, Absent Voting, Open Register, Registration at Elections and Individual Electoral Registration implementation.

Reviews take place where the ERO has received information that someone may no longer be entitled to be registered at a particular address, these are required to maintain the accuracy and completeness of the register. There are a large number of Reviews carried out each year and they generated 3 complaints, in 2 instances the Elector was maintained on the register and in the other they were removed.

Absent voting covers both postal and proxy voting options, these can prove problematic in the lead up to an election as the rules regarding deadlines and who can apply are complex and difficult to understand, these generated a total of 5 complaints out of over 34,000 absent voters.

Elections accounted for 3 complaints, in these instances the complainants hadn't taken any of the previous opportunities to register prior to the election.

On the 19th September the largest change in living memory to Electoral Registration took place in Scotland with a move away from a household system to a system of Individual Electoral Registration (IER). IER requires an individual to be responsible for their own registration and where their details do not match against records held by the Department of Work and Pensions, they are required by law to provide documentary evidence to prove who they are. This has resulted in 3 complaints, the other IER related complaint was due to there being a different annual canvas from the norm during this transition phase.

The final area that we have received complaints in is concerning the open register. This is the Electoral Register that can be purchased by anyone. Electors have the choice to be included or excluded from this register, as part of the transition to IER we were required to write to all Electors that were passported to the new system informing them of previously made choice of whether to opt out of the open register. There were 4 complaints received from people who appeared to not be aware of their previous choice and were unhappy about being on the open register.

There was one complaint about the conduct of a member of staff.

Resolution of Complaints

Most complaints were resolved at the frontline resolution stage. With the majority resolved on either the day of receipt or the day after. Only 2 complaints took over 6 days to resolve.

Referral to the Scottish Public Sector Ombudsman

There were no referrals to the Scottish Public Sector Ombudsman.

Conclusion

2014/15 was a year of unprecedented demands on our Electoral Registration Service, with the European Parliamentary Election, the Scottish Independence Referendum, several Local Authority by-elections and the introduction of IER. Given these circumstances it is pleasing to note that the level of complaints is similar to last year, however we must not be complacent as IER gradually becomes business as usual we will continue to monitor and learn from complaints across all our functions.

Indicator 7: Customer satisfaction

The statutory functions undertaken by the Assessor and Electoral Registration Officer are covered by a number of different appeal mechanisms, such as Non Domestic Valuation and Council Tax Appeals and some aspects of Electoral Registration. Representations under these are quite rightly not recorded as complaints. The resolution of these appeals can be confrontational or adversarial, despite this our staff have scored consistently highly for their professionalism and knowledge in our Customer Satisfaction Survey. The relatively low number of customer complaints does not lend itself to an analysis solely of these.

Indicator 8: Learning from Complaints

Reports of the number and type of complaints received are submitted to the management team at each meeting, normally held every 4 to 6 weeks with any trends being identified. Our recording mechanism is being further refined to improve our learning outcomes and attempt to reduce the number of complaints where an extension in time is required.

¹ This related to one complaint where further information was requested from the complainant on several occasions without a response from them.
