

WHO CAN VOTE?

In elections in Scotland?

SCOTTISH PARLIAMENT ELECTIONS

To vote in Scottish Parliament elections you need to be:

- 16 years old or over
- Resident in Scotland
- Any Nationality

LOCAL COUNCIL ELECTIONS

The requirements for local council elections are the same as Scottish Parliament elections.

UK PARLIAMENT ELECTIONS

The rules are different for UK Parliament elections.

You need to be:

- 18 years old or over
- British, Irish or a citizen of a qualifying Commonwealth Country.
- You can also vote if you are a UK citizen living abroad.

The different types of elections have different rules, meaning some people might be eligible to vote in some elections but not others. Let's look at some examples on the next page.

WHAT CAN I VOTE IN?

Further explanations for discussion of the answers to the previous page.

Pupil A is over 16 and lives in Scotland, so they are eligible to vote in Scottish Parliamentary and local government elections.

They are over 18 and are a citizen of a qualifying Commonwealth country, so they can also vote in UK Parliamentary elections.

Pupil B is over 16 and lives in Scotland, so they are eligible to vote in Scottish Parliamentary and local government elections.

They are under 18 so can't vote in UK Parliamentary elections yet, but as they are a UK citizen, they will be able to vote in this type of election once they turn 18.

Pupil C is over 16 and lives in Scotland, so they are eligible to vote in Scottish Parliamentary and local government elections.

They are under 18 so they are not eligible to vote in UK Parliamentary elections, and due to their nationality, they will not be able to vote in this type of election once they turn 18.

Pupil D is over 16 but no longer lives in Scotland, so they are not eligible to vote in Scottish Parliamentary and local government elections.

They are over 18 and are a UK citizen, so they can still vote in UK Parliamentary elections, but to do so, they must register to vote again, this time as a special category of elector called an overseas elector.
